Performance of the Fund for the financial period from 1 September 2022 to 30 November 2022.

Investors are reminded that past performance of the Fund is not necessarily indicative of its future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may fluctuate.

The Fund generated return of -1.08% for the financial period under review, underperforming its benchmark by 155 basis points ("bps"). The underperformance was due to surging inflationary pressure and quicker-than-expected pace of monetary tightening by the Federal Reserve ("Fed"). The weaker performance was also due to widening of Asian credit spreads, particularly economic slowing down in China due to zero-Coronavirus Disease ("Covid-19") policy as well as contagious risk from China Evergrande's bond default on China property sector.

C. Market Review

Fed remained in driver's seat in September 2022, as it continued to spook the market. The sell-off in September 2022 intensified with Standard & Poor ("S&P") down 24% year to date ("YTD"), the lowest level since November 2020. Unsurprising, inflation remains the biggest concern in Fed's mind and United States ("US") economy is going to tip into recession in 2023 given the peak fed fund futures' pricing of around 4.5% in mid 2023. Thus far, Fed has hiked rates by 300bps, tightening the market liquid and raising risk premium for asset prices. Both August's Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and Personal Consumption Expenditures ("PCE") suggest that the inflation had not peaked, exerting more pressure on the global market. The surge in United States Dollar ("USD"), as measured by Dollar Index ("DXY"), up 15% YTD has been a headwind for most asset classes in 2022. Commodity, as measured by Bloomberg commodity index, has fallen 8.1% m/m due to recession worries.

US payroll employment remained relatively tight with unemployment dropping back to lows of 3.5%. US September 2022 inflation data also showed overall inflationary pressure, mainly driven by housing rents and core services. Furthermore, US third quarter annualised gross domestic product ("GDP") came in at 2.6% quarter over quarter ("q/q") indicating that US growth was still intact. Notwithstanding the above, both equity and fixed income market saw modest rebound towards end of October 2022 as market participants forecasted that Fed will start to pivot towards a more dovish stance and slow the hiking pace in upcoming Federal Open Market Committee ("FOMC"). Meanwhile, Dollar strength persisted given a resilient US growth and inflation mix. That said, DXY saw some slight weakness towards month end (-0.53% month over month ("m/m")) as market players started to pencil in a more dovish stance by Fed.

November 2022 was a strong month for both equity and fixed income as signs of inflation slowing buoyed the investors' sentiment. US CPI eased to 7.7% year on year ("YoY") in October 2022, from 8.2% in previous month. US unemployment rate was unchanged at 3.7% in November 2022. Fed delivered 75bps to 3.75%-4.00% as expected, hinting a smaller magnitude of rate hikes in the coming month. The People's Bank of China cut its reserve requirement ratio by 25bps, injecting Chinese Yuan ("CNY") 500 billion liquidity into system. News of China gradual reopening is gaining traction and more government support on property sector also welcomed saw some bond priced jumped more than 400% in November. UST yield fell broadly, with 10 year United States Treasury ("UST") fell 32bps to end the month at 3.70%. Meanwhile, Dollar Index dropped to 104.66, the lowest since August 2022.

D. Market Outlook and Strategies

Looking ahead, the macroeconomic conditions have deteriorated as global growth is clearly slowing down. The European Union ("EU") will struggle with stagflation in fourth quarter of 2022 given the surging energy prices and the weaker economy. For the US, economic growth is already slowing with the high inflation coupled with elevated interest rates dampening economic activity. Over in Asia, China's economy was hampered by the sporadic outbreaks of Covid-19. This inadvertently disrupted economic activity and as a result, growth has been subdued despite announcements of policy easing. Of late, more easing of Covid-19 control measures has been announced in China and the economic impact has yet to be visible.

For the financial period from 1 September 2022 to 30 November 2022

D. Market Outlook and Strategies (cont'd)

With the Fed still hiking aggressively even as the economy slows, the probability that the US economy goes into a recession has increased. The US economy is still chugging along in 2022 with strong jobs numbers. At this point, jobs in the US are still growing at the rate of 250,000 jobs per month, a healthy amount for now but we still believe that the US may fall into recession in 2023.

For fixed income, in a recession, we will see overall interest rates to fall. This is because a weak economy and increase in job losses will force the Fed to reverse the tight monetary policy and ease by cutting interest rates. Therefore, we will see short-end rates falling faster than long-end rates resulting the vield curve to steepen. Credit spreads will also widen in a recession.
